

Class 3

Listening Test

The Listening component in the IELTS exam assesses your ability to understand spoken English. It is one of the four main modules of the IELTS test and is designed to evaluate your listening skills in both the Academic and General Training versions of the test. Here's an overview of the Listening section in IELTS:

Test Format:

Academic Listening: In the Academic version, test takers listen to four recorded texts that are typically found in academic settings. These texts may include academic lectures or discussions on various topics. Test takers are required to answer questions related to these texts.

General Training Listening: The General Training version includes four recorded texts related to everyday situations. These texts may include conversations, instructions, or public announcements. Test takers are asked to complete various tasks based on these recordings.

Task Types:

The Listening module includes a variety of task types, such as:

Multiple Choice Questions: You must choose the correct answer from a list of options.

Matching Information: Test takers are required to match information from the recording to a set of given options.

Plan/Map/Diagram Labeling: You have to label a plan, map, or diagram based on the information you hear.

Form, Note, Table, Flowchart Completion: You are required to complete a form, note, table, flowchart, or summary based on the information from the recording.

Sentence Completion: You need to complete sentences with words or phrases you hear in the recording.

Short Answer Questions: Test takers must provide brief answers to questions based on the information in the recording.

Timing:

The Listening section consists of four parts, and test takers have 30 minutes to complete the section. The recordings become increasingly difficult as you progress through the section.

Here are a few example questions for the IELTS Listening section:

- Multiple Choice Questions:
